men in other cities are provided for.

The law just passed by Congress has gladdened the nearts of members of the department as possibly no other legislation could have, since it means that adequate pensions are to be paid, and that disabled and superannuated firemen who have rendered faithful servme to the District will not be needected men who have rendered faithful service to the District will not be neglected by the municipality when they are no longer fit for active duty.

Plans for further improving the conditions of their employment may be discussed by members of the department at tonight's meeting. It is stated that the association still has much important work to do and that a busy year is mead.
